

URPP Financial Market Regulation

25th Forum Financial Market Regulation of 12 April 2016

Consumer Protection Issues in Financial Markets Regulation

The Global Financial Crisis reform has led to major changes to financial regulation and to how it is designed and adopted. But has it led to new thinking and to new regulatory designs, with respect to the consumer financial markets, along with the 'Cinderella' of financial market regulation and the location of intractable regulatory problems? This presentation will explore whether and how financial consumer protection has evolved in recent years, whether the new mechanisms being deployed (such as product intervention) are likely to be successful, and the reforms which remain necessary. It will place the discussion in the context of the EU's current Capital Markets Union reforms and the Commission's December 2015 Green Paper on Retail Financial Services.
