

URPP Financial Market Regulation

24th Forum Financial Market Regulation of 6 April 2016

MiFID II and its implementation for cross-border banking

MiFID II/MiFIR will bring major changes to how the EU regulates banking and investment services. This presentation will consider the cross-border effects of the new regime. It will consider whether and how the cornerstone ‘home/host’ relationship which governs cross-border banking and investment services activity, has been changed; the enhancements which have been made to supervisory coordination; and, with respect to third country access to the EU, the new regime which will apply. It will also consider related institutional matters, including how ESMA, and its new supervisory convergence agenda, is likely to shape the supervision of cross-border banking and investment services, and the interaction between ESMA and Banking Union’s Single Supervisory Mechanism. The presentation will also briefly consider the potential implications of the Capital Markets Union reform agenda and of the UK’s ‘New Settlement’ with the EU, adopted on 19 February 2015, for cross-border banking under MiFID II.
